FOREIGN MISSIONS AT BEST

Christian Evangelisation Never Had as Bright Outlook, Says Dr. Johnston.

ORIENT COMING TO FAITH OF THE CROSS

New York Dignitary of Church Cities Evidences of Steady Progress Being Made by the Gospel.

"Never before in the world's history has the outlook for Christian missions in foreign countries been so encouraging as today," said Rev. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston of New York in an interview Tuesday. "Take China, as an example. We hear much about the anti-foreign feeling there and some people imagine that this feeling is anti-missionary. It is nothing of the sort. The missionaries are in no sense responsible for that feeling. There are several good reasons for it. One of them is the dishonest dealing of certain commercial interests which have come into contact with the Celestias. A certain man sold $20,000 worth of ordnance and ammunition to Li Hung Chang. The ammunition didn't fit the ordnance and much of the goods was damaged so it could not be used at all. Naturally such a transaction didn't make the Chinaman feel well disposed toward the foreigner. The treatment of the Chinese in this country is another cause for the anti-foreign feeling, as is also the treatment of Chinese servants in the Asiatic ports by poor agents of the American lines. "There has been a great change in sentiment in favor of Christian missions in China since the Boxer uprising. The common people as well as the government have learned that the missions are working for their good. The empress dowager herself gave $2,000 to the Union Medical college which was dedicated in Peking last year by the Presbyterians, Congregationalists and Methodists. The personally appointed representative of the empress took the chair on that occasion of the dedication with the diplomatic representatives of a number of foreign governments present on the platform. And the imperial government has decreed that the graduates of this college shall be recognized equally with the graduates of the imperial university.

Footish and False Reports.

"Reports of the luxury in which missionaries live are utterly untrue and are usually circulated by people who have would not bear close scrutiny. The Board of Foreign Missions builds the homes of the missionaries and they receive about $200 a year salary. What object would there be for a well educated man to exile himself in a foreign land all his life for a fraction of the pay he could earn in the ### United States? The only thing he has to compensate him is the consciousness that he is doing a good work. If he wants to live a luxurious life he can do so far better at home. There is no law compelling him to be a missionary.

"A number of our missionaries have private means and these may live in pretty good style, but if they do they do so on their own private income. We have several missionaries who are almost millionaires."

SPARROWS FIGHT FOR HOMES

Flocks of Little Birds Put Up Pitiful Resistance to Work of Progress.

An unusual incident attended the dismantling of the Central meat market at the northwest corner of Sixteenth and Harney streets when workmen removed the signs on the outside of the building to begin the work of remodeling the building for use by Sherman & McConnell for a new drug store. Hundreds of sparrows, screaming shrilly, encircled the workmen and entered strenuous objection to the demolition of their homes behind the large signs. The crickets were filled with birds' nests and the straw and debris removed would have filled a large packing box, but the work was not viewed with approval by the homeless sparrows, whose anger was plainly evident. The birds flew in circles around their late abode and appeared to be contemplating an attack upon the marauding workmen, but, as their efforts did not deter the destruction, the birds gradually gave up the unequal struggle and departed in search of new homes.

EVEN COLD WATER LOOKS BAD

Witness Turns from Glass Offered Him by United States Attorney in Court.

James L. Arnell, one of the witnesses who testified Monday in the land trial in federal court was the cause of some ill-repressed amusement. The witness while on the stand showed evidence of extreme weariness. During the recess for a few moments he preferred to remain in the witness box, as his examination was not finished. When recess had ended and court resumed Mr. Rusk kindly offered the venerable witness a glass of water. Arnell looked at the water suspiciously for a moment and then shook his head gravely. "Nope I don't want any 'o' that," said Arnell. "I know when I've got enough." "But this is only water." "Water? Well I guess I don't want any. I told you I know when I got enough." And the veteran emphatically waved Mr. Rusk and the glass of water away, whereupon the dignity of the court and jury relaxed.
